▼ "I designed the Abaca table with polished brass spheres similar to those adorning my candlesticks and lamps," says J. Robert Scott showroom owner and designer Sally Sirkin Lewis. Named after an ancient abacus, the dining table balances a glass top encircled with a gold leaf detail on a macassar ebony base. Approximately $11,400, 877.207.5130, www.jrobertscott.com

▲ Known for their antique French reproductions, Manheim-Ruseau welcomes challenging requests from clients, which include a pool table that doubles as a Regency dining table or this king-size Ruhlmann-inspired bed in mahogany with mother-of-pearl inlay and a Bang & Olufsen hydraulic lift system in its base for a pop-up plasma TV. King size with baseboard, $49,016, 972.387.4578, www.manheimruseau.com

➤ After designing furniture for the historic La Madeleine church, Paul Mathieu and French bronze art foundry Fodor reunite to produce ARIA, a six-piece collection of bronze furniture. Fawnlike legs support horsehair-upholstered seats and ebony tabletops to evoke the split second before a deer leaps out of view. $6,480 to $19,800. Available at Ralph Pucci International, www.ralphpucci.net, 212.633.0452. S.M.
